

Step by step guide to Renters Pathway to Home Ownership

Renters to Sellers Program

Why do we call it Renters to Sellers?

Our target person to help is a person who has been renting for years and can't break into the real estate market because prices, interest rates and low income keep them out.

Step 1. Finding Value

How do I determine what a property is worth?

Three property value approaches:

1. Market Value - What Realtors use - similar comparables in today's market.
2. Rental Value - What investors need to pay to gain positive cashflow.
3. Cost to Build Approach - What it would cost to build in material and labor today.

Tip: Equity Headstart

Make money on the day you buy.

- Buy less than market comparables.
- Must Cashflow from a rental perspective,
- Must be less to buy than to build.

Consider all three value approaches before you buy, so to be confident you will never lose money on a real estate purchase.

Step 2. Making an offer

Make sure you are walking into equity. What is a good deal?

A good deal is:

1. A property in a good location, that you like and could see yourself living there.
2. A property that has upside potential. Where you can create more value through 'sweat equity'.
3. A property that you can rent out for more money than your total expenses. Using the rental value approach, you will never have to sell out of desperation because you can always rent it out.

Step 3. Cashflow plan

Whether you are renting out the property or you are residing in it, calculate the numbers based on current market rents.

See our Cashflow Template.

Step 4. Creative Financing

How do I get financing with bad credit, little down payment and a good income?

No down payment? Our renters 2 sellers program offers sellers financing to cover down payment up to 20% in the form of sellers equity on your property.

With proven rental income, our lenders work with investors and lend based off of the rental value approach.

Step 5. Strategy

Reduce Risk and prove rental income with existing tenants lease.

Purchase cashflowing property with existing tenants.

After closing, continue renting through the lease agreement, extend or add new lease, or move in to this property as your primary residence.
